British Drag Jews From Third Ship

HAMBURG, Germany, Sept. 9 (AP)—British troops using clubs and fire hoses emptied today the last of three transports which brought the exodus 1947 Jews to Germany. Some kicking, screaming Jews, their heads bloodied in 90 minutes of fighting aboard, were carried bodily from the transport, the Runnymede Park, after a sitdown strike against landing. A preliminary British report on casualties showed 24 Jews, including seven women hospitalized, and three British soldiers sent to hospitals with injuries. Correspondents on the docks counted at least six Jewish men with bleeding heads, carried down the gangplank, and about 20 others, including women, borne off face downward, as if unconscious.

The violence attending the unloading of the Runnymede Park contrasted with the peaceable debarkation of the refugees aboard the Empire Rival a few hours earlier. The first of the transports, the Ocean Vigour, was emptied, with some violence, yesterday.

REJECT 2 ULTIMATUMS

The steel-helmeted troops undertook the forcible disembarkation of the Jews aboard the Runnymede Park after the passengers rejected two ultimatums to leave peacefully.

When some 300 British troops moved into position for the operation, armed with clubs and wearing tear-gas goggles, many of the Jews began to leave peacefully. But others resisted bitterly.

The troops turned firehoses on the shouting and singing refugees who resisted attempts to force them up from the holds.

One of two men dragged down the gangplank with blood spurting from head wounds was reported to have been a veteran Zionist leader who had urged the refugees to "fight to the death."

Five soldiers carried one kicking, screaming young Jew down the gangplank, and all six fell in a heap. Behind them was a woman dragged by British soldiers and shouting imprecations. Just beyond, a British soldier held a five-year-old girl in his arms.

SHOUTS "HEIL HITLER"

One Jew being dragged from the ship shouted, "Heil Hitler!" Then came two more unconscious Jews, followed by a stretcher-borne man who nonetheless was kicking and shouting. Women's wails echoed up from the train pen near the quay.

Those who came quietly were treated gently by the troops along the gangplank. These refugees included women with babes in arms. All carried meager belongings. One British soldier came down the gangplank with a Jewish baby in one arm and a wooden truncheon hanging from the other.

"This is a sorry business, but it has to be done," an officer said.

Jews who pressed against the barred windows of the police vans bringing them on the last leg of this journey looked bruised and dishevelled, eye-witnesses said, and the clothing of many was torn.

Many of the young Jewish men continued their resistance all the way down the gangplank and were dragged into the trains or vans.

"This is not the way we want to go to Palestine," one Jew shouted from the crowd of refugees milling in the train pen.

In Hamburg's city square, meanwhile, about 1300 Jewish displaced persons demonstrated against the landings. They were dispersed after a clash with 500 German police led by a British colonel.

A British medical officer said most of the wounds suffered by the Jews in the Runnymede Park operation were minor.

Two correspondents representing the combined Anglo-American press reported from below decks that one group of Jews and soldiers engaged in a melee and that virtually all the Jews in this group had to be dragged out. They said some of the Jews were clubbed.

TEAR BARS OFF

The soldiers were met by a hail of tin cans and bottles when they went below, the correspondents reported and small fights broke out at a number of points. British soldiers were ordered to seize the ringleaders in each case.

In the train pen several hundred shouting Jews tore down a heavy burlap screen which hid them from the view of correspondents. Seven struggling Jewish girls were dragged down to gangplank and into the pen in quick order. A struggling boy of about 10 punched at the face of the Briton who carried him.

U. S. Rabbi Goes On Hunger Strike

PARIS, Sept. 9 (INS)—Rabbi Baruch Korff, who with eight other persons faces possible French prosecution in connection with a purported Jewish underground plot to bomb London, refused to eat any food today.

French police said the Russian-born New York rabbi has been on a hunger strike for 24 hours, declining all kinds of food.

Korff—who boasted of having "financed and supported" the Palestine underground's Stern Gang—did not explain, however, what he hoped to attain by his refusal to eat.

The nine persons held in connection with the plot, following seizure of Korff as he supposedly prepared to take off for a flight over London with propaganda leaflet "bombs," were formally charged yesterday on one count. They were accused of operations contrary to the (French) national interest.

Meanwhile, police continued their search to determine whether the alleged plotters actually had gelignite-filled bombs made of fire extinguisher cases, as persistently reported.

Barbara's Brother in Court For Quiz on Dad's Murder

LACONIA, N. H., Sept. 9—William Roberts, 16-year-old brother of Barbara Roberts, 20, who confessed the murder of her father, Sylvester, 52, a merchant seaman, appeared before Judge Harry E. Trapp in juvenile court today in connection with the murder probe.

No details of the hour-long court session were revealed. At the conclusion, Judge Trapp issued instructions to photographers to take no pictures of the boy and he issued this statement to newsmen:

"Proceedings were held in juvenile court in which William Roberts was involved in connection with the death of Sylvester Roberts. No inferences or conclusions are to be drawn from these proceedings. Juvenile court matters according to our New Hampshire law are secret unless divulged by consent of the court."

"The only matter that the court and the county solicitor feel it proper to divulge at this time is that William Roberts was in juvenile court in connection with the investigation as previously stated. He was represented by Atty. F. E. Normandin. All persons present have been cautioned by the court to give out no information in connection with this hearing."

POLICE QUOTED SISTER

Police earlier had quoted young Roberts' sister, Barbara, as stating in her alleged confession of the crime:

"I did it alone. Nobody was with me. Nobody knew anything about it."

Barbara has allegedly confessed shooting her father to death last Dec. 23, during a pre-Christmas argument, and hiding his body in a sheep pen on the family farm.

Today the kitchen door taken from the Roberts home was being examined at Concord State Police headquarters. There are several bullet holes in it. A rifle and revolver found on the farm are also being examined.

Ever since her arrest, officials have refused to believe her story that she alone committed the crime.

BOY FRIEND CLEARED

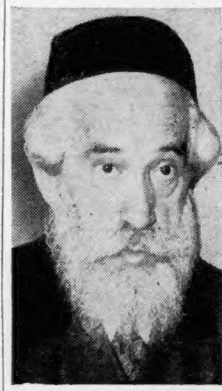

Atty. Normandin, who represented Williams at today's hearing, also is his sister's counsel. The lawyer was engaged by her brother, Lt. Com. Charles Roberts who was reported to have persuaded his sister to confess the bizarre slaying.

Several hours before William Roberts was taken before Judge Trapp today, David Golden, reported sweetheart of Barbara, walked into the office of County Solicitor William W. Keller, and asked:

"Do you want me? I'm Dave

Hub Rabbi Urges Son To Shun Hunger Strike

Declaring "I weep for this tragic world," Grand Rabbi Jacob I. Korff expressed hope in a statement today that his 13-year-old son—also a rabbi—held in Paris, would forego an announced hunger strike.

GRAND RABBI J. I. KORFF In Appeal to Sec. Marshall

Golden."

He was questioned for more than two hours, after which County Atty. Keller stated:

"We have talked with Golden and are checking his story, although we are satisfied he told us the truth. He came here voluntarily and talked frankly. He has been released and I do not think we shall want him again."

Shortly after investigators had grilled Barbara in her jail cell, she collapsed and a physician had to be called to attend her.

Atty. Normandin said he was not well enough acquainted with all facts in the case to make any statement at this time. He said no one would be allowed to talk with Barbara until after the grand jury has completed its deliberations.

The grand rabbi has appealed to Sec. Marshall to effect the release of his American-citizen son, Rabbi Baruch Korff, 33, accused of being leader of a plot to "bomb" London by plane with 10,000 leaflets.

Denying knowledge that his son was connected with any Jewish underground organization, the grand rabbi said Baruch's interest in "victims of violence and oppression" stemmed from seeing his own mother slain by hoodlums in Russia when he was a boy.

In his statement today, prepared in the form of a letter to Baruch, who, he said, was held "incommunicado," the grand rabbi said:

"My dear son, even as I write I weep, I weep not for you or for me, but for this tragic world in which we live. I have heard all the very sad news and I must admit that at first I was truly disheartened."

"But as hour-long minutes passed, I was filled with great hope, great confidence; for I have an implicit faith that goodness is impregnable, goodness will triumph."

"Baruch, my dear son, trust in more important things. Not only your friends, your family, but all freedom-loving men are behind you. I beg of you, my son, do not embark on a hunger strike. You and I know how frail is your frame, weakened by our tragic years in Europe. We do not yield so easily. No, it is more important that we eat and grow, that we can conserve our strength so that we can uphold, that we can maintain the struggle for all good things in life."

"Have faith in God. Be strong and of good courage, for 'the Guardian of Israel neither slumbereth nor sleepeth.'"

"Soon, we break bread together again."

"Your devoted father, praying for the redemption of Israel and all suffering people."

"JACOB KORFF."

Fugitive Lawrence Killer Linked to Billerica Crime

The sex-fiend slayer of 7-year-old Louise Anne Kurpiel, was under police pursuit today not only as the mad killer of the little Lawrence girl but as a suspect in the murder of Edward J. Flynn, Jr., 12, of Burlington, who was found dead and mutilated in Billerica woods last March and wanted also as a child molester in Leominster.

Only hours ahead of Lawrence detectives and State Police was a 21-year-old Lawrence youth who fled that city Sunday night after hiding blood-stained clothing behind a trunk in his room.

He was traced to the Fitchburg-Leominster area at 1 a. m. today. His description and photograph enabled police to learn he had been seen alone in Leominster, acting suspiciously, by several persons who had noted his actions between midnight and 1 o'clock. Believing now that the Kurpiel girl's murderer is a monster who had killed before and might yield to the insane impulse at any moment, authorities in charge of the Lawrence investigation enlisted the aid of all city, town and State Police to capture him before he can strike again.

Chief George H. Smith of Leominster said:

"This man's picture and his description tally exactly with those of a suspect we want here. He escaped us after accosting and molesting a boy of seven."

The Leominster child's experience occurred Sept. 4, the chief said.

FUNERAL THURSDAY

Meanwhile, plans were completed for the funeral of the little Lawrence girl, whose battered body was found on the north banks of the Merrimack river yesterday morning, 300 yards west of the Joseph Casey bridge.

Services will be held Thursday, with a requiem mass at St. Mary's Church, Lawrence, at 9 o'clock, followed by burial in St. Mary's Cemetery.

The tip that directed the man-hunt toward Fitchburg and Leominster came from a bus driver who rushed into the Fitchburg police station to report a youth answering the suspect's description as to height, weight, clothing and facial characteristics had boarded his bus in Lowell and alighted in Springfield. The driver said:

"I am positive from the description that I had the man the police want. He seemed excited all the way. He started to get off at Ayer, and then again in Fitchburg when I parked for a short time. But he stuck with the bus until I got to Springfield. Then he left in a hurry." Lawrence authorities, declaring they are positive of the identity of the mad killer, also received telephone tips from Boston, Lawrence and Nassau, N. H. But the bus driver's story fitted perfectly into the picture both from the standpoint of description and time and they proceeded confident of a capture in the Springfield district.

At the same time, scores of friends attempted to console the grief-stricken parents, Mr. and Mrs. Louis Kurpiel.

POSSE OFFERS HELP

Fully 100 persons formed a posse and went to Lawrence police headquarters, offering to help police search the city, door-to-door, until they find the man that is wanted. They indicated plainly that police would have no further use for him if they got him first.

Police Capt. Daniel Hart pleaded with the men to disperse. He said that as horrible as the case was it was one for police action; one demanding law and order action.

Lawrence officials today sent out a photograph of the suspect, announcing there was slight likelihood that he could evade police for very many hours.

An accompanying description said the 21-year-old is easily spotted because of the loss of two eyes, a scar under his chin and a ding-toed walk.

When he hurriedly left home he

European Lies About U. S. Shock Lodge

NEW YORK, Sept. 9 (AP)—Sen. Henry Cabot Lodge (R.) of Massachusetts, returning from a six-week investigation tour of Greece, Italy, France and England, said today it was "shocking to learn of the misrepresentations and untruths widely circulated and believed about the United States in Europe."

Lodge, his wife and two sons, were among 1897 passengers aboard the British liner Queen Mary.

The Senator, who went abroad as a member of a subcommittee of the Senate foreign relations committee, declined to give any specific illustrations of the manner in which the United States was being misrepresented.

He said, however, that "the worst possible motive is being applied to everything we do. It is indispensable that people know the truth about each other, but everything we do is twisted around."

"It comes from people who for reasons best known to themselves don't like the United States. A lot of things are at the bottom of it."

He said he would not indicate any source of the misrepresentations because "I was not there long enough to get proof as to who was responsible."

4 Bridge to East Boston Seen Best Hub Traffic Solution

The Greater Boston Development Committee, which originally favored a second vehicular tunnel under the harbor to East Boston rather than a high level bridge today declared that final decision on the projects should be based on a two-year traffic survey made by the State Public Works Department.

Theodore T. McCrosky, executive director, in a statement today at a hearing of the Special Legislative Commission on Traffic, Housing, Lighting and Recreation in Boston, declared the committee would refrain for the present from favoring or opposing either project.

The public works survey, known as the origin and destination count, was made with co-operation of the federal government. It shows the actual origins and destinations, as well as traffic volume, of vehicles entering and leaving Boston over a two-year period.

WITHHOLD JUDGEMENT
"The Greater Boston Development Committee attaches such importance to the survey data that we feel that all parties at interest would do well to withhold final judgment on the relative merits of the tunnel versus the bridge until their conclusions can be reinforced by the findings of the survey," McCrosky said.

"We also consider that analysis of the survey data is equally necessary as the basis for decision between the proposed Central Artery and the Atlantic ave. Motor Skyway."

But Temporary Mayor John B. Hynes, appearing before the commission on the same matter, declared that construction of a high-level bridge would be the wiser and sounder undertaking on the basis of all information and expert advice he had been able to obtain.

QUOTES ROBERT MOSES
He quoted New York's Park Comr. Robert Moses' recommendation to the City of New Orleans that a bridge be built over a portion of the Mississippi river rather than a tunnel constructed beneath it.

"He referred to an old engineering adage: 'Never build a tunnel if you can build anything else,'" Hynes said. "He went on to state a two-lane tunnel would cost more than a four-lane bridge, would take twice as long to build, cost more to maintain and would have less than half the capacity of the bridge."

"Experts inform me that essentially the same principle applies to Boston. There may be strong arguments in favor of a tunnel but it seems that the bridge would be more practical and less expensive project and would be of greater help in meeting the traffic problem of the city. Unless some strong reason is advanced, I urge you recommend the construction of the bridge."

WARNS OF TAX LOSSES
Regarding the question of a central traffic artery or an overhead highway on Atlantic ave., the temporary mayor asserted the former project would do more to relieve traffic congestion.

He warned, however, that the city was in no position to stand any "staggering loss" of taxable property. If a central artery were constructed, he said, it should be so laid out that destruction and loss of taxable property would be held to a minimum.

He also recommended that certain highways, such as the Veterans of Foreign Wars Parkway, now under the joint jurisdiction of the State, city and Metropolitan District Commission, be transferred into the care of one of the two State agencies.

Today's session of the special commission, headed by Sen. Philip G. Bowker, of Brookline, was devoted entirely to hearing on traffic problems of the city.

Negro Admits Her Slaying

Burglar Admits Killing Girl, 15

NEW YORK, Sept. 9 (AP) — Deputy Chief Insp. William T. Whalen, in charge of Brooklyn detectives, said today that an 18-year-old Negro had signed a statement admitting the bludgeoning slaying last April 20 of 15-year-old Selma Graff.

The Graff girl and her nine-year-old brother, Donald, were struck with an iron bar by an intruder who entered their bedroom while their widowed mother, Mrs. Pauline Graff, attended a movie.

The girl died several hours later. San Tito Williams, the suspect, allegedly was searching the Graff home when the high-school girl awoke, screamed and clawed at his back. He struck her and also bludgeoned her brother when the latter yelled, the statement said.

ROME, Sept. 9 (INS)—Two American pilots flying around the world in Piper Cub planes took off from Rome's Ciampino Airport today for Cairo.

The pilots are George Truman, well known Pacific Coast motorcycle rider and veteran aviator of 19 years' experience, and Clifford V. Evans, Jr., of Washington, D. C. Both are former Army pilots.

Home Wine OK Home-Brew--No!

It's perfectly all right for any householder to manufacture wine in his own home, so far as the federal government is concerned, if he adheres to a few simple regulations.

But manufacture of home-made beer—no! That's a hop of another vine.

Holding that fermentation of the juice of the grape is a natural process, the government agrees that any householder may make as much as 200 gallons per year, provided it is for his own family and none is sold. Amateur vintners also must obtain a free government permit.

But bringing a batch of beer to a frothy head requires a little more assistance than Mother Nature, accounting for the federal trown.

B. W. Fletcher of the Alcohol Tax Unit, announced regulations regarding wine making at home because of recent misunderstandings. Asst. U. S. Atty. Joseph M. Hargredon added the caution against fooling around with home brew.

Food Prices Continue Soaring To New All-Time High in Nation

Cabot Doesn't Know If He's Still Judge

Superior Court Judge Charles C. Cabot of Dover, who sent in his resignation Sept. 2, in a letter to Gov. Bradford, said today he did not know whether or not he was still on the bench. Gov. Bradford, who returned today from a Maine vacation, was expected to disclose what action he plans to take.

The resigned judge was one of scores of jurists and friends who attended today's induction ceremonies when Stanley E. Qua was sworn in as chief justice and Harold P. Williams as justice of the Supreme Judicial Court. The ceremony was held in the full bench room of the Supreme Court.

the general trend was upward in the faster moving race for economic adjustment.

For the fourth consecutive day, the Associated Press index of 35 wholesale commodities reached another new all-time high yesterday at 192.26 compared with the 1926 base year of 100.

Included in the continued advances were meat, coffee, butter, tallow, eggs and corn. Moreover, the whole dairy outlook was far from a pretty picture as described by Russell Fifer, executive Sec. of the American Butter Institute. The dairy industry, Fifer said, is going into the winter with an exceptionally low supply of butter and cream in storage and with 2 per cent less milk cows than a year ago. Since the peak milk production in 1944, he added, ed, the number of milk cows has dropped 7 per cent, while consumer population since the start of the war has increased 10,000,000, many of them now in heavy milk drinking ages.

Butter climbed another cent a pound on the New York and Chicago mercantile exchanges yesterday to new peaks for the year. Eggs advanced to 60 cents a dozen wholesale here, and porterhouse steak hit $1 a pound at New York retail outlets.

Probably foreshadowing further retail price hikes, hogs hit a new all-time high of $34.25 a hundredweight at the Denver stockyards and a record top of $31 at the South San Francisco stockyards. Traders at Omaha, Sioux City, Ia., and East St. Louis, Ill., snapped up the offerings there at $30 a hundredweight.

Although grains in futures trading at Chicago were mostly lower in yesterday's dealings, one cash corn transaction brought a record high of $2.57 1/2 a bushel.

Two of the nation's largest chain grocery concerns boosted coffee two cents a pound retail in New York. Tallow, used by soap manufacturers, was up a cent a pound.

Eugene C. Schultz, New York city commissioner of markets, gave these comparative retail prices there on a few food items:

Porterhouse steak, $1 a pound, up 21 cents over a year ago; bacon, 79 cents a pound, up 9 cents over a year ago; butter 87 cents, up 10 cents since September; large eggs 87 cents a dozen, up 10 cents; chuck steak 59 cents a pound, up 4 cents; chopped beef 49 cents, up 10 cents; veal cutlets 95 cents, up 20 cents; leg of lamb 65 cents, up 6 cents.

Poultry prices remained unchanged or slightly lower than those of September, Schultz said, with broilers and fryers at 49 cents a pound, off 2 cents from a year ago, and roasting chickens unchanged at 55 cents a pound.

Blonde Sicilian Scorns Ex-GIs' Offers to Wed

Offers of marriage from sympathetic ex-GIs today continue to pour in on Amalia Salamone, 19, blonde Sicilian girl who came to America to wed, but she'll have none of them merely to remain in the United States. It must be love.

The young Italian who changed her mind about marrying Michael J. Biarrio, 28, of Arlington, after her arrival in the United States, today announced at the Springfield home of relatives that she'd rather go back to Italy and scrub floors the rest of her life than get married just to stay in this wonderful America.

At the same time, Biarrio—who again has offered to become her husband—declared his intended bride has all but made that impossible with her demands for luxury.

He said that when he met her in Italy, when she was 15, she was a fine little housekeeper, but now she insists on a new house and maids to do her work.

Despite this appraisal, at least 70 men, many of them ex-GIs, have offered to say "I do" with Amalia.

Immigration authorities have notified her that unless she marries Biarrio or some other ex-GI before Sept. 29 she must go home to Italy. If she marries an American non-veteran, she will have to go back anyway and come back under a Visa.

"I am getting many offers of marriage," she said at the home of an uncle in Springfield. "But I cannot marry the man that I thought I was in love with. I was only 15 then, and things change."

"And I won't marry simply to get a home. I always have my good home back in Palermo."

All this, of course, was told reporters through an interpreter. For Amalia speaks only a few words of English.

Biarrio's complaint is that he has found the girl he planned to wed very much changed.

"I only earn $65 a week," he said. "That's quite enough to start on, but it isn't enough to buy a house and hire servants for a girl who says she never will do any housework. I had to tell her she didn't want a $65-a-week man, she needed a millionaire."

Renewing its attack on the administration of City Mgr. John B. Atkinson, the Cambridge City Council at its first fall meeting assailed the city's sewer system, public housing projects and revisions of assessments on property for tax purposes.

By a vote of 7 to 2 the council requested the city assessor to furnish a list of all assessment increases in 1947 to implement a charge by several members that taxes will be higher as a result, although the 1947 tax rate is lower.

Carol Janis Says She, Not Calvert, Slashed Nude Art

By LOUELLA O. PARSONS

HOLLYWOOD, Sept. 9—Ah Ha. Ah Ha! The plot thickens in the case of the Carol Janis semi-nude painting which John Calvert, motion picture actor and magician, was accused of slashing to ribbons.

Both Calvert and Miss Janis today insist that she herself was the "vandal" who destroyed artist Edward Withers' revealing portrait of her, which won the gold medal from the Painters and Sculptors Club.

"Yes, I destroyed it," Miss Janis admitted to me. "I did so because the head was mine, but the undraped body belonged to some other girl. When it appeared in a national magazine, my mother was terribly upset, and certain artist friends of mine called it indecent. So I cut it to pieces and then burned it."

"Later, I apologized to Mr. Withers. I didn't know that artists sometimes combine two figures to make one portrait."

The picture of the painting was obtained by a national magazine, Miss Janis explained, when Mr. Withers exhibited it on the steps of the Los Angeles Museum of Art, during a personal controversy he had with that institution. Miss Janis said she was there helping him with his protest.

Stalin Visits Black Sea Resort, Sees Molotov

MOSCOW, Sept. 9 (AP)—The Soviet press reported today, Prime Minister Stalin visited the Black Sea summer resort of Sochi, Aug. 19, aboard the cruiser Molotov and was received on his arrival by Foreign Minister Molotov.

The papers published photographs of Stalin aboard the cruiser and related in detail how he inspected the ship and talked to officers and crew members.

Two large pleated semi-circular arrangements on either side of the low neckline exaggerate the bosom.

A narrow waist and full hip-line give an hour glass effect.

The cocktail suit, a 3-piece wool garment with a skirt extending to the floor, weighs 22 pounds.

The boulevard suit is more conventional, the only noticeable deviation being the long skirt.

Dior, 42 years old, was lavish in his praise of the United States, which he is seeing for the first time.

ADMIRE U. S. WOMEN

Texas, Dallas and American women also have impressed the designer.

"The women are lovely," he said. "They are so . . ."

"Well-shaped" the interpreter suggested.

"That's it — well-shaped," Dior answered.

"I like their clothes, too. They are so simple and casual."

He did not comment on a resistance movement against his innovations in style, which started with the Little Below the Knee Club and has grown to a write-in membership of 30,000 women.

"The United States women are on to the style," Dior said.

"Malnutrition" is evident among children at the "Experiment in International Living" camp, Dijon, France, reported Betsy Cohen, a counselor there, on her return by plane last night. She was greeted by her sisters, Mrs. Richard Weinberg, 21 (center), and Barbara Cohen, 23. The camp is affiliated with the Putney School, Putney, Vt., where Barbara is a student.

6 Regular Veterans Give Medal to W. R. Hearst

WASHINGTON, Sept. 9.—William Randolph Hearst will be awarded the Regular Veteran's Ass'n medal for distinguished service, William M. Floyd, national commander, announced today.

A resolution adopted at the recent national convention of the long-established organization of former regular Army, Navy and Marine Corps servicemen commended Mr. Hearst for his crusade against Communism. The resolution follows: "Whereas, Communism threatens the free institutions which exist under our form of government, and

"Whereas, democracy as a living force can no longer be taken for granted by the American people, if they wish to keep inviolate the freedoms guaranteed to them by our Constitution and Bill of Rights;

"Whereas, foremost among many in the fight to condemn Communism has been the Honorable William Randolph Hearst, "Therefore, be it resolved that this convention commend the Hon. William Randolph Hearst for his Americanism in the fight to suppress Communism in the United States, and

"Be it further resolved that the Hon. William Randolph Hearst receive the Regular Veterans Ass'n Medal for distinguished service at a suitable time and place designated by the national commander."

Floyd said today he hopes to present the medal to Mr. Hearst during an early tour of the organization's posts throughout the United States.

The convention was held at Wilkes-Barre, Pa.

First formed in 1890 as the Army and Navy Servicemen's League, and renamed the Regular Veterans Ass'n in 1934, the organization has long been officially recognized by the Veterans Administration, congressional committees and other veterans' organizations.

School Children to Receive Reprint of 'Our Constitution'

Free copies of "Our Constitution," by Benjamin DeCaseres, a reprint of this noted work from the Boston Evening American, will be given to every schoolboy and girl in Boston in connection with the Sept. 17 observance marking the 160th birthday of the United States Constitution.

This free distribution will be only a small part of the celebration a week from tomorrow, with Boston's more than 90,000 public school pupils joining in tribute to the historic document and to the men who framed it that liberty might be born in the Western Hemisphere.

OBSERVANCE IN SCHOOL

Arthur L. Gould, superintendent of Boston public schools, in a communication yesterday to principals of more than 250 grade, elementary and high schools, requested that they hold assembly exercises on that day "which will bring to the attention of pupils the broad privileges of American citizenship under the Constitution."

Constitution Day will be observed officially Sept. 17 in Boston and 12 other major cities of the country, with State and City joining in fitting ceremonies wherein the spiritual sons of freedom's forefathers will pause to reread the great document, reflect on its meaning and pledge themselves anew to its maintenance.

HONOR SIGNERS

Nor will the two Massachusetts representatives of those brave colonists, the two men who signed the Constitution and recommended its adoption to their fellow Americans, be forgotten a week from tomorrow.

Wreaths will be placed on the grave of Rufus King in the Old

Cambridge Cemetery, and Nathaniel Gorham at Phipps Street Cemetery in Charlestown. An "open house" is planned by the Navy on Sept. 17 aboard the ancient frigate Constitution.

Be sure to follow the Wishing Well each day in the Daily Record.

Since the early days of Egyptian royalty, women have been imparting artificial tints and colors to graying hair. In too many instances the dyeing has proved disastrous—and sometimes fatal.

Some valuable tips for hair dye users will be given in the article, "Be Sure Your Hair Dye Is Harmless," to be published in next Sunday's American Weekly, magazine issued with all editions of the Boston Sunday Advertiser.

An entertaining story for racing fans—and others as well—is "Tale of the Horse's Head," by Dan Parker and Warren Brown, also featured in next Sunday's American Weekly.

Beginning tonight at 7:30 and continuing daily through Sunday, an International Bible Conference will be held at Central Baptist Church, Washington st., Quincy, at which the speaker will be Rev. M. Frammer Smith, author of Christian literature and former instructor at the Moody Bible Institute at Chicago.

Churches participating include United Presbyterian Church, Finnish Congregational and St. Paul Methodist, all of Quincy; Blamey Memorial Baptist and Swedish Baptist, of Dorchester, and Brin-tree Baptist and Lincoln Square Baptist of Weymouth. All conference meetings are open to the public.

Beginning Oct. 1, Cambridge police plan to try out a no-parking plan on certain main streets of the city during morning and afternoon rush hours.

Officials said automobiles parked at parking meters in Central and Harvard sqs. would not be affected.

His $330 Gone, Pickup Girls Held

Two young South End women were held on suspicion of larceny today when Joseph Ferry, 47, of Montgomery st. South End, identified them in the police lineup as chance acquaintances who robbed him of $330 last night.

Ferry said he met them in a South End restaurant and they went on a cafe tour, winding up in a North End bar. He reported that, when one of the women left, he found three $100 bills and three $10 bills missing. Outside, he saw the women getting into a cab. Ferry shouted for police and the two women were arrested.

Banker Kidnaping Trio Indicted

Three men, now held by police of Windsor, N. Y., for running down an 8-year-old girl there, were indicted by a Suffolk grand jury today charged with the kidnaping and armed robbery of Nathaniel D. W. Allen, 43, business extension manager of the First National Bank of Boston, and William H. Burns, Milton, an optician.

Indicted were Richard H. Barratt, 24, Lynn; Edward L. Anderson, 19, Huntington, L. I., and John W. Jones, 20, Williamsport, Pa. Anderson and Jones were also indicted for the $200 armed robbery of a North End liquor store.

Allen was robbed of $10 and forced to drive to Monterey, where he was released. Burns was freed in Commonwealth ave. after he had been kidnaped in downtown Boston and robbed of $40. New York State Police said they had obtained signed confessions from the trio, describing the kidnap-holdup and several other holdups.

WORLD-FAMOUS NAME SCORES A NEW SUCCESS

Thousands cheer for the taste of the new MOUNT VERNON

taste

Seems like everyone's talking about the new Mount Vernon. How smooth it is—how mild—how successfully it meets the modern demand for fine and delicate flavor. Few whiskies can match the fame of the Mount Vernon name. But with all its ancient reputation, today's Mount Vernon is the most popular in history. Try it and you'll know why.

14 Girl Slaying

heavier. He has a splotchy-dark complexion and dark hair.

SUSPECT IDENTIFIED

A picture of the suspected slayer was identified positively by Leo J. St. Hilaire, 49, of Concord ave., Lawrence, who had given a light to the man who killed little Louise.

"I got a good look at his face in the flare of the match," St. Hilaire told police. "I never could forget it. He was all bloody and when I asked him what was the trouble he replied:

"Oh, I got in a little jam."

Then he beat it.

"A little boy who was fishing with us there on the banks of the Merrimack also spoke to the man, asking his name."

"All the fellow replied before he left was:

"Call me Santa Claus."

THREE YOUTHS TALK

At the time the child was slain, St. Hilaire, his wife and another couple and the young boy were fishing in the river only about 50 yards from the spot when Louise's body was found. Police declined to reveal the names of the other couple or the boy.

The real break in the case came when three youths who knew the suspect well went to police and fearfully told what they believed to be a solving clue. They proved right.

When police went to the home of the suspect they soon found the blood-stained suit hidden behind a trunk in his room.

The suspect's mother said her son was to have gone to a wedding Sunday night. She said he came in unexpectedly before 9 p. m. and left a short time later. At that time he was wearing the blue striped suit, she told police. He also wore a blue sport shirt, brown shoes and had neither a necktie nor a hat.

The suspected youth had served in the Navy aboard the carrier Franklin which received a direct hit in the Pacific shortly before the end of the war and which resulted in the killing of scores of her crew.

The encounter between the fishing group and the man believed to be the murderer took place only 37 feet from where the mutilated body of the little girl was found and about 67 feet from where she was bludgeoned to death with a rock.

Police Chief Martin Sullivan says he believes it was the intention of the murderer to throw the child's body into the river. But when he heard voices coming from the direction of the stream he quickly cast it into the tall grass and weeds, instead.

James J. Quane, of Amesbury st., told of seeing a little girl wearing a yellow dress, similar to that found on the victim, shortly before 8 p. m. Sunday night.

She was holding the hand of a man and skipping along happily with him. He was not sure of the man's age because of the gathering dusk, but said his description, in general, fitted that given of the supposed murderer by the fishing party.

The murdered girl was also seen earlier by Mary Durriss, 13, of Main st., Lawrence, who said the girl asked her how to get to Springfield st. She advised her not to take a short cut through the wooded growth because it was so dark.

"Let me take you home" she urged but the girl said her father was at her grandmother's house on Springfield st. and she would go there and have him take her home.

Dr. Alan R. Moritz, state pathologist, said Louise died of a fractured skull from blows inflicted with a large rock, found near the murder scene. There had been an unsuccessful attempt at criminal assault, he said.

The body was found about 7:15 yesterday morning by a man whose name was withheld by police, but who was said to be one of a number of vagrants who frequently sleep under Central bridge.

It was about 150 feet from the parking lot of the old Kalix Mills, now used by the U. S. Army Climatic Research, and about 300 yards from Central bridge. Chief O'Sullivan said the little girl had been taken down the river embankment to a little clearing concealed from view, where a terrific struggle took place.

SCARED BY VOICES

During the struggle the child's underclothing was torn off and thrown aside, and her dress pulled up over her head. After the slaying the murderer apparently picked up the body and started for the river, only to drop it when frightened by the voices of the fishing party some 20 feet from the scene of the slaying.

She had been officially missing since 7:30 the night before, when her father, returning home with baby John, one year old, discovered that Anne was not in the house and notified police.

The mother, a part-time waitress, who was on duty Sunday night, had left early with Anne and taken her to the home of Mr. and Mrs. Patrick Houlihan in Manchester st.

It was learned that Louise played with Peggy Houlihan, who is about the same age, until 7 p. m., when she started home. Her house is only about 700 yards away.

These Days

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY

NEARLY TWO YEARS AGO an editor complained of my writings because I emphasized the Russian problem too much. I do not have his letter before me, but as I recall it, he counted the number of times I mentioned Russia and showed statistically that I was harping too much on one subject.

He said that the people in his town did not like the emphasis on Soviet Russia; that they were not interested; that they did not consider Communism that important. I am sure that he was right two years ago. He lives in what might be called CIO territory and many of his readers, while not themselves Communists, were sympathetic toward the general thesis advocated by the leftists in this country. Besides, the Russians and ourselves were allies who had fought a common ene-

Nene of us wanted the United States to make war on Soviet Russia; all of us wanted our country to take a firm stand for right and justice.

TIME PASSED. The evils of Hitlerism, Yalta and Potsdam are known to the American people. The Russian seizure of plants, peoples and even countries has disclosed itself in a brutal disregard for human rights.

At the United Nations and in the conferences of foreign ministers, Soviet Russia adopted the position that the United States is the enemy of Europe. Every measure toward peace has been vetoed.

They tried to take our atomic bomb; they have harassed us in Japan, Korea and China. The United States and Soviet Russia are farther apart than Germany and the United States were before they went to war. They are as far apart as Japan and the United States were after 1931.

Those of us who kept harping on the subject seemed to play on one string, but that note proved to be a true one. Those who continued a pro-Russian propaganda misled the American people.

Now we face the facts and they are ugly. The official policy of the American people, the Truman doctrine, is positively anti-Russian. It has now been reinforced by the Marshall Plan, the insistence upon an eleven-power treaty with Japan and by the correspondence between Truman and the Pope.

The Russians have countered by organizing the Slavic bloc of nations which now includes Czechoslovakia and Hungary; they have re-stimulated the civil war in China; they have restored the Third International to both legal and illegal activity in every country.

This phase of their activity has forced the United States to re-screen its public officials from the standpoint of their personal loyalty. Bernard Baruch's phrase, "the cold war," fits the situation perfectly.

BUT THIS COUNTRY wants no war and the Russians can afford no war. War will not solve the problems raised by Russian imperialism. It can only bring upon the peoples of Europe greater suffering than they have already undergone.

It will not be the Russians as much as the British, the French, the German, Austrian, Hungarian and other Western and Central European peoples who will find themselves between the Eastern and Western millstones. It will be a horrible war, if ever it occurs.

For us, this situation means so huge a preparedness that Russia dare not fight. It means vast expenditures for army, navy, air force, chemical and biologic warfare, atom bombs. It means high taxes and less spent on social welfare. It means high production for warfare and the wasteful utilization of our natural resources.

But this we must face. We must be prepared that we shall off a war which will destroy Western civilization and our liberties. Those who fooled us between 1939 and 1945 cannot be trusted again. They lied to us then—we cannot take any risks now.

Teacher Sought In Nova Scotia

The hunt for Dorothy T. Wilder, 47, missing Ashby school teacher, turned to Nova Scotia today through belief of her father, Albert M. Wilder of Ashby that she is hitchhiking toward that goal.

Earlier, the search was conducted along the slopes of Mt. Washington in New Hampshire, after her automobile was found parked at the base of the peak.

Wilder said he had questioned people in Rumford, Me., and is convinced that a woman who sat up all night in a Rumford hotel lobby is his missing daughter.

He said he further learned that woman had consulted a priest there and asked directions for getting to the "College of St. Xavier" in Nova Scotia.

BACKACHE, LEG PAINS MAY BE DANGER SIGN Of Tired Kidneys

It backache and leg pains are making you miserable, don't just complain and do nothing about them. Nature may be warning you that your kidneys need attention.

The kidneys are Nature's chief way of taking out acids and poisons from the waste of the blood. They help most people pass about 8 pints a day.

If the 16 miles of kidney tubes and filters don't work well, poisonous waste matter stays in the blood. These poisons produce backache, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up at night, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headache, indigestion. Frequent or scanty passages with smarting and burning sometimes show there is something wrong with your kidneys or bladder.

Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, a stimulant diuretic, used successfully by millions for over 60 years. Doan's give happy relief and will help the 16 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from the blood. Get Doan's Pills.

Head of the Vegetable Gardening Dept., Norfolk County Agricultural School

Q—What are the symptoms of Dutch elm disease?

A—The first symptoms are a yellowing and wilting of leaves on one or more branches. Report any suspicious cases to your local tree warden.

Q—We have some fine looking kale, but the family does not care for it as it is strong flavored. Did we plant the wrong variety?

A—Kale is one of the cool weather crops. It develops strong flavor during hot weather. Wait for a good frost and try it again.

Q—How many tomatoes should be canned for 3 persons?

A—It is estimated by our home food canning experts that you should put up about 30 to 35 pints of tomatoes and tomato juice for each member of the family.

Q—Does clover make a good soil improving crop?

A—Clover seed planted now will make considerable growth before freezing. It is a good soil improver.

Q—Is it necessary to continue spraying tomatoes if no blight is present?

A—Tomatoes can still be damaged by blight unless the foliage is protected with copper. Light dustings should be sufficient.

Q—Is it time to harvest and store buttercup squash now?

A—If the vines are still green, leave them alone. The squash that becomes hard and dry will keep better when handled.

Form JVA Corps, Boys, Girls Urged

All boys and girls between the ages of 10 to 18 years are eligible to form their own Junior Victory Army Corps and become an officer in their New England organization.

The Junior Army provides interesting and instructive work as well as important postwar projects for the organizers.

To form a corps is simple. Just write to the address below and request the revised four-page illustrated folder. Enclose a three-cent stamp loose in your letter.

Your group can be made up of all girls or all boys or both girls and boys. You can meet in your home or at school, church or any other meeting place you choose. A minimum number of six children, five in addition to yourself, is needed to form a corps, but you can have as many other members as you like.

To join the JVA, send your name, age and address to the Junior Victory Army, P.O. Box 228, Boston, Mass. If, in addition to enlistment, you want the JVA insignia pin and membership card, enclose a 10-cent coin, well wrapped, in your letter.

Read the next JVA story in Wednesday's Daily Record.

The U. S. cultural center and the Communist party headquarters in Cordoba, 400 miles northwest of Buenos Aires, were twin targets of vandal attacks.

A small bomb exploded in the doorway of the cultural center, local office of the U. S. State Dept. cultural program, breaking windows and causing other minor damage. No one was injured. At about the same time, bombs containing tar exploded in front of the Communist building, smearing the facade with the sticky substance.

THE 'FREEDOM TRAIN'

BOSTON EVENING AMERICAN, TUES., SEPT. 9, 1947

AN IMPRESSIVE and inspiring feature of the observance by the American people this year of the 160th anniversary of the adoption of the Constitution of the United States will be the departure from Philadelphia of the "Freedom Train."

Under the supervision of the American Heritage Foundation, a corporation organized by patriotic Americans for the purpose of honoring and perpetuating the democratic principles and ideals of the country, and under the sponsorship of the Hearst newspapers in many cities, the "Freedom Train" will visit every State in the Union during the next year.

It will bear the most precious cargo of significant historical documents, intimately related to the rights and freedoms the American people enjoy and to the hopes and aspirations of all mankind for their ultimate enjoyment, ever assembled for nationwide public display.

It will be a great service to the American people to exhibit these priceless instruments of American achievement in the field of their spiritual and patriotic responsibility, and it will be a great privilege for the people to view them and gain better understanding of the manner in which they link our present way of life to the brave dreams and deeds and the high ideals and purpose of the founding fathers of the country.

Constitution Day is an auspicious occasion for starting the nationwide and year-long tour of the "Freedom Train," for that is the day which stands conspicuously and eternally in the minds and memories of all Americans and all the liberty-loving people of the world as the symbol of the free way of life we have achieved in the United States and hold as our heritage and our responsibility.

Millions of Americans will have a renewed and more vigorous concept of the proud history and spiritual source and patriotic tradition of the free institutions of their country in consequence of the forthcoming tour of the "Freedom Train."

It will be an inspiration to all the people, and it will be particularly impressive and instructive to young people who will gain a more personal and intimate understanding of patriotic duty in becoming familiar with and appreciative of the immortal symbols and instruments of their free American heritage.

SHOCKING CRIME

THE FIENDISHLY brutal murder of seven-year-old Louise Anne Kurpiel of Lawrence has been attributed to a sex maniac, and once more the whole Commonwealth is aroused and angered by the fact that such things can happen among civilized people.

A few months ago the Legislature, belatedly responding to the almost universal demand for action, passed a law designed to deal more realistically with criminals who prey habitually on children.

HOW WELL AND HOW WIDELY HAS THAT LAW BEEN ENFORCED?

HOW MANY OF ITS PROVISIONS HAVE THE POLICE DEPARTMENTS AND COURTS IGNORED?

WHAT EFFORT HAS BEEN MADE TO ROUND UP KNOWN SEX OFFENDERS?

The Attorney General should make it his business to get the answers to these questions.

Could the little Kurpiel girl's murder have been prevented?

Can't other children be spared from the grim fate that befell her?

If the Attorney General conducts an investigation along these lines, millions of fathers and mothers will breathe easier.

It would be well for the Governor to select a really competent member of the judiciary and ask him to devote all his time to checking on police departments and judges in a sincere and entirely non-political effort to make sure that all laws pertaining to sex criminals are carried out to the letter and to advise the incoming Legislature regarding what new laws are needed.

NOW THE DESIGNERS of attire for men are swinging into action with some dictatorial conversation. No doubt they are envious of the attention showered on those who strive to tell the females what to wear. The fashions for men experts say trousers are to be two inches shorter. I'll tell them right now, my trousers won't be that way. Short or "high waister" pants make a tall guy look like a gawky sap. What is the idea of this suggestion that trousers be shortened? Are they going to try to sell us less material for the same price?

PASSING BY: Lois De Fee, tall and somewhat terrific burlesque and night club queen.

Lois is six feet two inches in height. She says in Toledo she was introduced to 20-year-old Steve Cooper, who is seven feet five inches tall and still growing. In Detroit Miss

Harriet Hilliard

De Fee says she met an 18-year-old girl who is six feet ten inches tall and still growing. . . . Ozzie Nelson, bandmaster. And his charming wife, Harriet. They have been married 12 years. The 12th anniversary is the silk or linen wedding so if you are one of Ozzie's fans, you can send him a silk handkerchief and his wife some Irish linen.

BABIES AND BUNGALOWS: Due to an insistent demand on the part of subscribers, we recently established a Babies and Bungalow Department. The first problem presented was that of a Brooklynite, who said her greatest "household management headache" was trying to get her small children to drink their milk. Discussing this, a Santa Monica, Cal., client says the solution is to give up trying to force the children to drink milk. She says to give the kiddies buttermilk, cottage cheese and bananas. She further states she was a milk hater in her early youth and her mother finally gave her the items aforementioned.

tioned. As a result she had none of the usual diseases of children. In fact, she is now 43 years old and has never had a sick day in her life.

LIVELY GRANDMA: Now I have a reader in Coal Center, Pa. She is a grandma at 36. As soon as she received the news she was a grandma, she did a Highland Fling. Since then she has been repeatedly requested to do this dance for guests. Her son-in-law is the one who does the requesting, saying: "Folks, what do you think of a grandma who can do the Highland Fling? Go into your dance, grandma."

STENOGRAPHER'S BREAKFAST: The Snug Harbor cafe in Portland, Ore., features a stenographer's breakfast which is described on the menu as "a cup of coffee and a cigar." The price is five cents. No doubt this is on the menu list for a laugh. But there are stenographers who consume little more than that for breakfast. Such stenographers are no bargain and not up to par in efficiency during the morning. Stenographers who eat a big breakfast are the best.

ASKING: Queries from clients. Q—Will your Mules & Men experts advise what a woman can do with a husband who orders her to change her hairdo to a style that is unbecoming, and also demands she tone down her makeup? A—It all depends upon the spirit in which the matter is handled. If the husband issues orders as to hairdo, makeup, etc., the thing to do is ignore him. If he suggests a change, his suggestions should be given kindly consideration. If they are not followed sound reasons for not doing so should be given the old boy. The "obey" in the marriage ceremony is not intended to cover such situations. Such is the opinion of our Mules & Men experts.

WAITRESSES: Am asked how many miles the average waitress walks in an eight-hour day. That depends upon the location of the kitchen and the types of customers. The average, I believe, is 14 miles a day. But where the kitchen is quite a distance away, and most of the customers are women, the waitresses walk about 22 miles a day.

BLUE-EYED animals: "Are there any blue-eyed animals? They all seem to be brown-eyed." Such is the query of a Bostonian. He has me momentarily baffled. But I will go over to the zoo the first thing in the morning to look for a blue-eyed animal. Guess I better take my binoculars so I can check on the giraffe.

FAIR ENOUGH

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

Copyright, 1947, by King Features Syndicate, Inc.

NEW YORK, Sept. 9—Philip J. McDonald, late PFC in the 240th M. P. Battalion, Zone of Interior (Special), reporting:

Mr. McDonald reports that he was tapped for the honor of guarding the life and property of the President of the United States and the lives of his loved ones and of that nasty little mutt of his, oh, that stinking little—

"Listen," Mr. McDonald states, "I don't care what the Republicans said about that Fala, they didn't know the half of it, the way he used to bite and snarl and snap, and the way he would strut around the place at Hyde Park. I picked that thing once, and if the people knew in the 1944 election this dirty little mutt was taking nabs out of American soldiers they probably would have voted for him just the same, but not me. I was against him, and anyone who was for him was a phony to me, except Dave Shumate, the cook."

"Dave was for Roosevelt, but he was a good Joe just the same, and I used to hang around there sometimes. He was a pretty good cook. I didn't like Roosevelt and I didn't like the job."

MR. McDONALD WAS one of that crop of 20-year-olds who volunteered for one year in 1940 and were detained for duration. He was not discharged until 1945, being, by then, a veteran of the Normandy invasion, which he made with the 48th Amphibious. He was transferred to the 458th Amphibious in March, 1942, after the trouble about the duck.

One day there came to Fort Jay, Capt. James Foley and selected 60 men for the 240th. It was all supposed to be hush because nobody was supposed to know Roosevelt was to have a special battalion, of 384 officers and men at Hyde Park to guard him when he took a notion to go there and take a lot of overbearing back talk from Fala.

"I think Captain Foley was a West Pointer," says McDonald, "he certainly was a soldier, anyway. He was strict, but he was fair. They had their own private bowling alleys on the Rogers place. Bowling alleys, swimming pools, and the Government bought this all to have a place to keep the President's Guard. We didn't use them, though."

The commanding officer had his own private house on the estate. We had a staff sergeant named Leo Turmenak, an old Army Joe. He used to say, "Keep on marching with those white leggings and you will get the Navy 'E' for efficiency." He said a lot of mama's boys could stay here till they got retired for old age and never know we had a war.

"One day he finally got a three-day pass and went down to Dix and some outfit needed a good sergeant so they hired him to go to war."

"ELEANOR USED to come around sometimes and you would have to present arms. I never presented arms for Fala, though. The old girl was a nuisance coming around the barracks and a lot of us used to dress and put on the brass whistles. I never knew what good they were for, anyway. She told us how bad the soldiers were off in Africa, and the English people."

"Another time I had a date in a tavern, but I had to stand there and listen how proud I should be working for the President of the United States. I had to stand up my date in the tavern to listen to that. We had to cut trees and brush and saw logs and make several miles of corridor road on his property."

"THIS DUCK came walking around the corner of Roosevelt's house one day when he was inside and I was on guard. It got terribly dull and lonesome up there so I stooped down to pet the duck and it quacked at me so I step along and the duck falls in."

"I was afraid he would run away, so I tied him with a piece of string to his foot. We weren't ever supposed to be without our gun on guard but with that big-mouth Mike Reilly and all those Secret Service mugs around, there and keeping out of the war, too, nobody was going to take a shot at Roosevelt."

"So I put my gun in the shack and that duck was simply wonderful the way he would, you know, squads east, right-face, and we were putting on a review, just the two of us, when around the corner comes that Stowell, the new major."

"THERE WAS 15 of us in the draft down to Moultrie, S. C. to join the 458th Amphibian, a great outfit. I never knew where that duck came from and I never saw him again but he was a natural soldier and a good Joe and I hope he made sergeant in the 240th M. P. Battalion, Zone of Interior, (Special)."

Ten days after D-Day they sent me in a party down to Omaha Beach to get a load of Span off a landing ship and she bumped a loose mine and I got my back hurt. But the worst part was two hypodermics broke off in me on the way back to England that night, the corpsman was so nervous and seasick."

"You'd be surprised how it solves our daily meal-planning problem!"

Hollywood

By Louella O. Parsons

HOLLYWOOD, Sept. 9—I am greatly intrigued with the news that MGM plans to film Gustav Flaubert's classic, "Madame Bovary"—and even more intrigued that Lana Turner will play Madame Bovary, who was born on a Normandy farm and achieved exciting romance. Patricia Fernan, who is producing "Bovary," is already supervising its adaptation.

When I was young—I won't say how many years ago—I heard that "Madame Bovary" was a very wicked book, so I went to the public library and asked for it. The librarian, who was a friend of my mother's said no, it wasn't fit for a young girl to read. Well, you can guess, I got the book and read it. In those days it was considered pretty wicked—a sort of "Forever Amber" of the day. Today it would be mild.

Lana, who is so good in her last two pictures that MGM is boasting about them openly on the MGM lot, will be a Madame Bovary born to the part.

FAMED SINGER Lettie Lehman makes her movie debut with Margaret O'Brien in "Big City."

Miss Lehman will sing "God Bless America," the Irving Berlin song which has already cleared $137,000 for the Boy and Girl Scouts, to whom the proceeds have been given by the generous Irving.

It's interesting that when "When Freedom Rings," his new song, is put on the market, the proceeds from that will go to the American Heritage Foundation.

Norman Taurog is directing little Margaret in "Big City" and that means it will be a picture for her wonderful children.

There's been a lot of buzzing that because Paulette Goddard and Burgess Meredith were coming home separately they were calling a halt to their marriage. A cable from Burgess denies this. He is on the Mauretania and arrives Thursday. Paulette is flying home and they will meet in New York and go to their farm before coming to Hollywood.

When Burgess gets here he will do some added scenes for "Ben Hur," while Paulette is plated to do a picture called "Hazard" for Paramount.

KATIE Hepburn has had a real rave on because MGM didn't give her the lead in "B. F.'s Daughter," but gave it to Barbara Stanwyck and there's a very amusing story told about Barbara.

She always said she would never make a picture at MGM, so when she arrived at the studio the property men rolled down a red carpet for her to walk on, and when she stepped into her dressing room, she found a set of silver from her bosses.

Katie is now saying she will be happy again if the studio buys Anita Loos' play, "Happy Birthday," for her.

When "Bathsheba" plays here, if you're interested, you can get a look at Doris Duke's new husband, Porfirio Rubirosa. He's an expert horseman, and he doubled for all the difficult riding scenes for the leading man, Leonide Mogui, who directed the picture, says that Rubirosa appeared in the picture just for the fun of it, and because he loves to ride.

Talk to that Danielle Darrieux, who gave up Rubirosa to marry another man, is none too happy over his marriage to the tobacco heiress.

WITH LOS ANGELES now listed as the third largest city in the United States, it certainly behooves us to get more hospital beds. There aren't enough to take care of our sick in any hospital.

The Los Angeles County Medical Bulletin calls attention to St. John's Hospital in Santa Monica, naming it as fine a hospital as exists anywhere. I quote:

"St. John's has only one hundred beds and in this institution there is not one penny of Los Angeles public or private money. The funds were provided by the Sisters of Charity, who gave the hospital to our community as a gift."

Certainly it's up to us now, to help Sister Ann Raymond enlarge that hospital and help support it. What a wonderful thing, an annex could be built, so there would be room for the sick. The hearts of these good sisters are so big, but they can only do so much.

There isn't a nicer guy in town than Lee Bonnell, husband of Gale Storm, but he never gotten the break he deserved. He served four years in the Coast Guard, but ran into tough luck when he returned to HKO because no pictures could be found for him.

Now I'm happy to say he has a good job, his first since the war. He'll play the romantic lead in "Jiggs and Maggie in Society" at the Mogogon, and I hope it's just the beginning of a fine new career for him.

SNAPSHOTS OF HOLLYWOOD collected at random:

Pat Smart, out of the hospital, was feeling well enough to dance with Spencer Martin at the Biltmore Bowl, and I might add Pat looked very chic.

Also at the Bowl were Dennis Day and Peggy Alquist, such a pretty girl—and they looked very amusing.

Bruce Cabot is off to New York. He just got back, he'll spend a day in St. Louis as the guest of Carl Brisson.

Harry Richmond, in marvelous form, had all his ducks at his Circo's opening. Bebe Daniels and Ben Lyon at a ringside table. Joseph Schenck also was there to welcome Harry.

Lena Horne sails Oct. 22 on the Mauretania for Europe. Her tour will consist principally of appearances in Paris.

Although Rita Hayworth kept her luncheon date with Jimmy Stewart, she's been seeing Ted Stauffey evenings. He's a composer and musician.

Sid Luft and Marian Marshall, a blonde, out stepping Director Zoltan Korda, brother of Alex, is leaving for Switzerland to try for a reconciliation with his wife who is there with their two children.

S. N. Behrman, the playwright, has accepted an assignment from the New York to go to Palestine to write a series of articles.

Connie Moore is slated for a six weeks personal appearance at the Golden Gate Theater in San Francisco starting Sept. 17. What memories that theater brings back.

D. W. Griffith is lending a receptive ear to Jack Skirball, who wants him to produce the screen version of "Short Grass," an outdoor story. Well, there's nobody with more original ideas than D. W., who was the dean of them all.

That's all today. See you tomorrow.

Broadway's Voice 11

By Dorothy Kilgallen

NEW YORK, Sept. 9—Uncle Sam may startle Broadway and Hollywood with a gigantic suit for back taxes against a former showman. The sum involved is "way over quarter of a million . . . Socialite songstress Anne Francine, who scored a big hit with Paris cafe society, planes back to the U. S. over the week-end to start rehearsals for "The Richest Girl in the World" . . . Fals are bagging one of the members of a famous comedy team to look into Alcoholics Anonymous . . . Howard Duff in trying to lure Jean Castle into matrimony—and it looks as though he may succeed . . . He read that she was dating Jimmy Stewart, saw green, and asked her to fly back to his arms . . . A Greenwich Village physician is awaiting his final divorce decree with considerable impatience. He'll try again with Lorraine De Wood, "La Sultana" of the recently headlined John Mees yacht murder . . . It's easier to get a room at many New York hotels than their managements would care to admit.

HOWARD HUGHES had several chats with Hedy Lamarr during the past few days. Business they say . . . Leon Enken will take over one of Saratoga's oldest and most famous establishments next season and operate it with his son under the name of "Leons—Sr. and Jr." . . . There's a true life "Hunchback of Notre Dame" drama taking place right in the heart of Manhattan—and show business. The Quasimodo in the story is associated with a local theater in a minor capacity. The girl, young and lovely member of a popular dance team, admits she owes everything to the heartbroken hunchback, but says they "can't be more than just friends." . . . Comedian Jackie Miles and hypnotist Ralph Slifer are feuding after a terrific blowup.

TIP TO TALENT SCOUTS: Jean Martin, a waitress at the Mayflower Restaurant, looks exactly like Gene Tierney . . . Experts say the Scotch shortages will be something desperate this winter . . . Mike Mazurki, the ex-Manhattan College football star who went into pictures (remember him as the giant in "Murder My Sweet") is giving of the cinema to remain his wrestling cheer . . . Local art lovers will be excited when a film produced and directed by Jean Cocteau arrives at one of the "continental" playhouses. Called "Beauty and the Beast" and based on the fairy tale, it stars Josette Day and Jean Marais, and is very pretty stuff . . . Roger Krupp will walk down the aisle with Christine Lock, a beautiful, young Carolina . . . The Clarence Allen (he's a star photographer) are lullabying their toothy, 4 ft. 3-in., 105, at Flushing Meadows.

ALAN YOUNG'S newest infatuation is Lorna Jordan, an ex-Act! Carroll, showgirl. Bing Crosby's sister-in-law, Florence George (she's Everett's wife), returns to the footlights this season as the ingenue lead in "Music in My Heart." Walking stick manly, sure will launch a campaign designed to lure men into reviving these elegant canes. (I just can't wait for the heavy gold pocket watch, the brown deers and the handkerchief mustaches!)

A FRONT PAGE baseball story should break after the close of the season. Concerns a feud between two outstanding sports names which flared into real pyrotechnics in the Red Sox clubhouse. Not only fists, but bats, flew . . . Patrons at the Three Towers nearly fainted the other night, and who can blame 'em? A fashionably dressed dame strided in wearing sequined eyelashes!

MAX BAER may front at East Side restaurant for the sporting crowd. His prospective bucker is a big name . . . Jazzophiles are tooting a girl musician, Vivian Garry, who plucks a bass fiddle and leads a trio at the Onyx Club. She's created more talk on Swing Street than any femme before—since pianist Mary Lou Williams . . . As soon as Rita Hayworth boarded the Twentieth Century for California, Ted Stouffer hoped on a plane so he could be at the station to meet her when she arrives on the West Coast. He was with her aboard, too . . . Starlet Peggy Malet and department store heir Jay Rosbach are swooning.

"Doctor, I'm SO lonely! I could tell you my personality!"

Washington Scene

Copyright, 1947, King Features Synd., Inc.

HOLLYWOOD, Sept. 9—I drove over to Tarzana today to see Tarzan's old man.

He took the visit pretty bloody calmly, if you ask me. He did not beat his breast, strangle a lion, or even leap across an 80-foot chasm, which I thought was the least he could do by way of welcome.

Instead he reclined languidly in a large armchair, fortifying himself with nourishing whiskey, and declared he would not shiny a single coconut tree, although he had cause to celebrate, it being his 72d birthday.

I trust the distinguished Edgar Rice Burroughs will not take this much, but I never expected to see him in the flesh. Frankly, I thought he was dead. It seemed impossible that the man who caused me to try treading an elephant at the age of six could still be in the land of the living.

However, he turned out to be the halest and heartiest septuagenarian I have ever seen—also about the wealthiest. Like the guy in the song, he has made the San Fernando Valley his home, being the Nestor of Tarzana, a thriving community named after the free-swinging character which made him rich.

I WISH to make it clear for the record that I did not bust in on Tarzan's literary parent. I was invited. I was sitting around, wondering whether to join one of California's hermit sects or do some work, when a visiting young lady from Washington named Helen Hesse called and said that Edgar Rice Burroughs would like to see me.

After the initial shock of realizing that a writer I had mentally contemporized with Horatio Alger, Jr., and G. A. Henty was still alive, I replied I was deeply flattered, but why did Mr. Burroughs have this overpowering desire to see me?

"Because," said Miss Hesse, "he thinks you are the nearest thing to an apenion now writing for the public prints."

Naturally, this appealed to my vanity, and I locked couple of visiting sports columnists, Vincent X. Flaherty and Shirley Povich, in a closet and took off in a cloud of sunshine.

There is no way to miss Mr. Burroughs once you get into Tarzana, because he owns most of it, although he lives very modestly himself. The movies throw up far more pretentious homes in an afternoon for a single shot. And the only jungle beasts I saw roaming around were Rep. Donald L. Jackson of California's 15th District and his congressional secretary, Elmer Dean.

I TOLD Mr. Burroughs I wished my mother could meet him as she would undoubtedly want to thank him for providing me with a broken collarbone from falling out of a tree.

"I have the distinction," he replied solemnly, "of having been denounced by more mothers' groups than any man in the country. There was a time when I did not dare pass a mother without a bowdoin."

"Some years ago, when Tarzana was practically living in high foliage, I received a very indignant call from the Kansas City Hospital. I was informed, coldly, that the hospital, that very day, had taken a 15-year-old patient, all of whom had fallen out of trees playing Tarzan."

"I had hardly put down the phone when there was an unearthly racket in my backyard and I went out to find that my own youngest son, Jack, had tumbled from an umbrella tree."

I ASKED Mr. Burroughs how he came to create Tarzan.

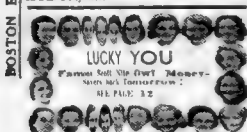

22 Ousted Teachers Given Life Jobs

The 40 temporary teachers of handicapped children ordered dropped from the rolls by a majority vote of the school committee last week were assured of their retention on permanent status today.

After a stormy five-hour public hearing during which charges were made that retention of the teachers would cause a breakdown in the school merit system, the committee reversed its ouster decision by a vote of 3 to 2.

A new tenure law affecting the school dept. provides that a temporary teacher who has served three years or longer shall be placed on the permanent list.

Smart Set Greene-List Bridal.

By BETTY ALDEN

THE MARRIAGE of Nancy Lloyd List to Jerome Davis Greene, 2d, will take place next Saturday at St. Peter's by the Sea, Ogunquit, Me. Rev. Ernest Harding of the Church of the Messiah and Incarnation, Brooklyn, will perform the noon ceremony, assisted by the bride's cousin, Rev. Harry R. Miles of Stamford, Ct.

A wedding breakfast will follow at the summer home in Ogunquit of the bride's grandmother, Mrs. Sydney Lloyd Wright of Washington, D. C.

Miss List is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Stuart List of Pittsburgh, Pa. Mr. Greene is the son of Mrs. Edward Nicholas of Washington and Jerome Crosby Greene of New York City. He is a grandson of Jerome Davis Greene, distinguished scholar and former officer of Harvard, of Cambridge, and the late Ralph Adams Cram, noted Boston architect.

Claire List will be her sister's maid of honor and the bridesmaids will be Elizabeth C. Greene, sister of the groom, and Jean O. Kennedy of Wayne, Pa. Best man for Mr. Greene will be Lucien H. Warner, Jr., of New Haven and the ushers William W. Tunnell of Athol and Colin F. N. Irving, son of Dr. and Mrs. Frederick C. Irving of Brookline.

Bostonians attending the wedding festivities will include Mr. and Mrs. Jerome Greene, Cambridge; Mr. and Mrs. Frank Dunn, Wellesley Hills; Master David Green and Mr. and Mrs. Robert H. Davison of Cambridge; Ralph Wentworth Cram and Patricia Cram, Southborough; Wallace Scudder and Master David W. Scudder of Boston.

Other out-of-town guests will be Mr. and Mrs. Herbert W. Beyea, Raymond C. Mills, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Flanagan and Alfred Rummel, New York City; Mr. and Mrs. Lucien Warner, Norwalk, Ct.; Virginia Fischer, Springfield; and Mrs. Wallace M. Scudder of Newark, N. J.

The future bride graduated from Fairfax Hall and Smith College. Mr. Greene graduated from Harvard in August, having served three years with the Merchant Marine.

WHEREAS BASEBALL has its double-headers the debutante world will have a triple-header tomorrow evening when three of the season's attractive girls make their debut together at a dance at the Copley Plaza.

The honored debutantes are Roselle M. a. y. Rice, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. B. Buttrick of Concord.

The dance will be preceded by a dinner party at the Chilton Club, given by Mrs. Rice, Mrs. Russell and Mrs. Ralph Weld Square, Joan grandmother. All sorts of fun has been planned to entertain guests between dances in the Copley Plaza ballroom where the foyer will be turned into a miniature midway with bowling, rag toss and other games of chance.

Debutantes attending the ushers' dinner with the guests of honor will include Myra Blanchard, Mary Cumner, Blanch Frenning, Elsie Gage, Mary Lois Doggett, Ely Hand, Mary Parsons, Harriet Suydam, Ann Theopold, Sarah E. Thorndike, Patricia Wolcott, Frances Wales, Mary Leigh Morse, Patricia Houghton and Dorothy Hooper.

Charles D. Howell, son of Mrs. Russell Howell of Louisburg Square and cousin of Lillian Russell, will be head usher.

PSORIASIS

Many beautiful women and girls are forced to remain in the background and wear charm-concealing gowns because of ugly psoriasis lesions. Are you among this number? If so, try SIROIL. It may do for you what it has done for thousands of others and change the entire situation for you. SIROIL tends to remove the crusts and scales of psoriasis which are external in character and located on the outer layer of the skin. If or when your psoriasis lesions recur, light applications of SIROIL will help keep them under control. Applied externally, SIROIL does not stain clothing or bed linen, nor does it interfere in any way with your daily routine. Try it. Certainly it's worth a trial, particularly since it's offered to you on a two-weeks' satisfaction-or-money-refunded basis.

2d Leukemia Girl In Family Dies

Hugging her favorite doll and smiling to the end, brave little Diane Moison, 3, leukemia victim of Chelsea st., Everett, died at the Massachusetts General Hospital after a month's battle against the disease.

Two years ago the victim's older sister, Gale, then 3, succumbed to the same disease at Massachusetts General.

Diane was stricken with the disease a month ago. Last week she developed hemorrhages and cramps and was returned to the hospital.

New England Vets Cash $22,850,395 Leave Bonds

More than 100,000 New England veterans of World War II cashed terminal leave bonds totaling $22,850,395 from Sept. 2 through Sept. 5, according to an announcement by the Federal Reserve Bank of Boston.

On a national basis, veterans cashed about one fifth of all terminal leave bonds during the first five days, with the greatest drain coming the first day.

A "Scratching" Dog Is In Torment

Thousands of dog owners have found the good way to keep their pets from constant scratching, biting, rubbing and digging since a new, safe, give them a dose of Red Hunters Dog Powders. These powders usually help to bring prompt ease from an intense itching irritation that has centered in the nerve endings of the dog's skin. The urge to scratch abates—the dog is happier, more contented. No wonder a purchaser writes: "Red Hunters Dog Powders have given my dog great relief. Many thanks from 'Cindy' and self." Why not try them on your own scratching dog. See at Lagan's Pet Shop, 218 Summer St., and at Francis St., and leading dealers every-where. (Economy size box for $1.00 only.)

LOVELY LATIN from Manhattan is Olga San Juan . . . Brooklyn-born of Puerto Rican parentage . . . who scintillates as one of Paramount's top comedienne and whose complexion scintillates with care-free, eye-catching charm. Unless our eyes deceive us . . . there is nothing sluggish and dull about Olga's facial personality . . . which could match a specific circulation cream for stimulating anyone's interest.

Try This Quick Recipe For Cucumber Pickles

By MARTHA LEE, Household Editor

NOW'S THE TIME to start replenishing the empty shelves of the preserve closet—filling them to capacity with jars and jars of wonderful home-canned goodies that never fail to perk up a meal.

Sparkling jellies and jams for breakfast, fruits for lunch-supper desserts, and spiced fruits and vegetables that go so well with meats for dinner.

And, of course, no cupboard is complete without some fine homemade pickles. Here is a grand, quick recipe for cucumber pickles that you'll treasure year after year. It calls for a bit of molasses which gives a delicious blend of sweet and sour.

CUCUMBER PICKLES

- 1 qt. cucumbers
- 1 qt. onions
- 1 qt. water
- 1/2 cup salt
- 1 cup vinegar
- 1 cup white sugar
- 1/2 cup molasses
- 1 cup mustard seed
- 1 tsp. celery seed
- 1/2 cup oil

Select cucumbers from 2 1/2 to 3 1/2 inches in length. Wash thoroughly and cut into thin slices without peeling. Slice onions in thin slices. Put in a large bowl. Dissolve salt in the water and pour over cucumbers and onions. Add more water if necessary, to cover them. Let stand for 2 hours. Put vinegar, sugar, molasses, spices, and oil in a saucepan. Heat to boiling, stirring until sugar is dissolved. Drain the brine from the cucumbers and onions, cover with cold water and heat to boiling. Then drain again. Pack the pickles in hot sterilized jars; fill jars with hot vinegar mixture and seal immediately. Makes 2 quarts.

PEAR AND PLUM JAM

3 1/2 cups prepared fruit
1/2 cup sugar
1 box powdered fruit pectin
To prepare fruit, peel and core about 1 1/2 lbs. fully ripe pears. Crush thoroughly or grind. Put about 1 1/2 lbs. fully ripe plums, do not peel. Cut in small pieces and crush; add 1/2 cup water. Bring to a boil and simmer, covered, 5 minutes. Combine fruits. Measure sugar into dry dish and set aside until needed. Measure prepared fruit into a 5 to 6 quart kettle.

Place over hottest fire. Add powdered fruit pectin, mix well, and continue stirring until mixture comes to a hard boil. At once pour in sugar, stirring constantly. (To reduce foaming, 1/2 tsp. butter may be added.) Continue stirring, bring to a full rolling boil and boil hard 1 minute. Remove from fire, skim, pour quickly. Paraffin at once. Makes about 8 glasses (6 fluid ounces each.)

SPICED PLUMS

1 qt. plums
1 cup vinegar
1 cup sugar
1 tsp. cloves
1 tsp. cinnamon
1 tsp. allspice
Wash and dry plums. Place them in a stone jar or bowl. Boil vinegar, sugar and spices together for 10 minutes and pour over plums. Cover and let stand overnight. Drain off the liquid and bring to boil, add to plums and cook until plums are clear but not broken. Pack in clean hot jars, fill with pickling syrup and seal immediately. The plums should retain their color and should be firm and plump in appearance.

PICCALILLI

1/2 pint green tomatoes
1 pint small cucumbers
1 green pepper
1 medium size onion
1 qt. cider vinegar
1/2 lb. salt
1/2 lb. sugar
1 tsp. peppercorns
1 tsp. celery seeds
1 tsp. mustard seeds
1 tsp. whole cloves
Chop the tomatoes, cucumbers, peppers, and onions (may be put through food chopper using largest knife). Mix with salt and set aside for 12 hours. Drain well, then press to get out all free liquid. Heat the vinegar, sugar and spices, add the chopped pickles and bring to the boiling point. Pack into jars hot, wipe off sealing surface of jar, adjust cover according to type used, and process 5 minutes in hot water bath. Remove from canner and complete seal if necessary.

Circulation Cream Benefits Any Skin

By RUTH MUGGLEBEE
Beauty and Fashion Editor

YOU DON'T HAVE to be a magician to work a little magic into your complexion. The cosmetic chemists have done all that in formulating preparations for which the facial pelt has a tried and tested affinity. They are there for the asking . . . only too many women don't understand such cosmetic language.

At my summer retreat recently . . . a group of gals sought me out and bombarded me with all sort of queries on skin care. Amazing how little is actually known about this problem . . . and by women who truly care about their appearance. Beauty care seems such an intangible to so many of them.

In telling one girl that her complexion, obviously sluggish, needed the beneficial whipping of a circulation cream to stimulate a fresh supply of blood to the facial tissues to help clarify the skin texture and obliterate superficial eruptions . . . she asked in all seriousness . . . "What's skin circulation?" She might as well have asked why the ocean has tides.

QUICK IMPROVEMENT

We offered her our own jar of circulation cream . . . which incidentally we had used the night before . . . and urged her to try it. The next day she returned all aglow . . . literally and figuratively. Her skin showed marked improvement and she showed keen and new interest in skin care.

There was a new brightness to her skin . . . several of the superficial facial indignities had vanished . . . and actually her complexion had taken on a new lease of life and loveliness.

Day in and day out skin cleansing isn't sufficient to maintain facial beauty at a high pitch. The skin may be in a passable condition . . . but it lacks that certain oomph . . . that certain radiance which is, of course, the ultimate facial look. Every home-maker knows that though she dusts the dining-room table and living-room furniture daily . . . it must have that once-a-week polishing overhauling to make it sparkle . . . even though it is clean.

RENEWES FACIAL LIFE

And so we say that no matter how clean your skin is . . . how devoted your purging routine . . . the complexion must have, at least, once or twice a week the deeper penetration of a specific cream which brings new roses to the cheeks, new crystal-like brilliance to the skin texture, new life to the old pelt.

The circulation cream that does a bang-up job of renewing facial life is one which makes the complexion tingle actively. Although it is ostensibly for oily, sallow, sluggish or blemished skin . . . we use it on our own face and throat and our complexion doesn't belong in any of those categories. It is also a prize treatment for whiteheads, freckles, fading tan and minor discoloration.

FACIAL STIMULANT

It is a cream that works with nature . . . stimulating circulation, helping clear the skin to give it a fresh, delicate appearance. Leave it on from three to five minutes . . . until that feeling of a warm glow sends up the signal for removal. And don't apply it too closely to the eyes or nostrils. We're warning you that it burns delightfully between you and me . . . it burns away dulling facial film.

For the name of this active facial stimulant, phone the Beauty Dept., Liberty 4000, any day except Sunday, or write to me, care of the Boston Evening American, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Ace Designer To Give Talk

"The Last Word on Longer Skirts" and a prophecy of trends and silhouettes which will be more permanently acceptable to American women will be discussed by Charles James, noted American designer, when he addresses the Boston Fashion Group's opening luncheon-meeting in the Hotel Somerset ballroom, Friday, Sept. 19.

Couturier for three of the ten best-dressed American women (Mrs. Harrison Williams, Mrs. Barbara Cushing Mortimer, and Mrs. Millicent Rogers), Mr. James showed his collection in Paris this summer, the only American designer invited to do so since the war.

Twelve of his outstanding silhouettes will be modeled as illustrative and tangible proof of his fashion convictions during his discourse. He is the only member of the American haute MILITARY-looking shoulder tab and long slim lines combine to give this hunter-green gabardine suit . . . by Molly . . . a very precise and pertinent look. The counter-balancing pocket, similarly pointed as the tab . . . the widened revers . . . the golden horses on the potting buttons which close the jacket . . . all add up to mood smartness and current fashion classicism. There's nothing extreme about this good-looking two-piece . . . not even the lengthened skirt.—R. M.

The meeting is open to the public; tickets available at the Hotel Somerset banquet office. Miss Harriet Wilensky, regional director of the Boston Fashion Group, will preside.

The Correct Thing

By ELINOR AMES

MAKE IT INCONSPICUOUS—There are times when, due to poor ventilation, tobacco smoke in the room or fatigue, it is almost impossible to stop a yawn. Try to make it as inconspicuous as possible and, if you think no one saw the yawn, don't apologize. Naturally, you'll apologize for an obvious yawn, since it's a false but old saying that a yawn denotes boredom.

Squared-Off Look at Yoke

By EILEEN CALLAHAN

ONE OF THE more subtle signs of this year's fashion revolution is found around the shoulders and yoke of the tailored suit. It's a squared-off look and it makes the whole top of a suit a unit of well-engineered tailoring.

It is accomplished by means of lines that extend straight across the bodice. Sometimes they stop at the armpits; sometimes they continue across the upper sleeve. They may be formed by tucks and folds of the material, by contrasting stripes or by the straight edges of a pair of little shoulder capes.

This squared-off look serves a real purpose for it balances the rounded hipline and the longer skirt and compensates for a less bulky shoulder line.

The suit designed by Nettie Rosenstein and sketched today has a squared-off yoke that folds like an envelope at the corners. Set into the yoke is an easy neckline, collarless, with a flat V opening at the throat. The longish jacket is molded and trim; the skirt is slim. The suit is made of blue violet wool.

How WONDER BREAD Helps Build Strong Bodies 8 Ways!

Note How Amazing Wonder Bread Compares with Meat, Milk and Fish in Certain Growth and Energy-Building Contents (as stated at left)

EVERYBODY knows the foundation of good health is good nutrition.

Science now says that better nourished children learn better.

Yet, despite the fact that children do 60% of school work in the morning—7 out of 10 fail to get a good breakfast.

Thus, to start your child off on the day right, you are urged to give your child a good breakfast.

Serve the basic "Wonder 4" Breakfast. And add more of the same and other foods, according to age and appetite. The better the breakfast, the better your child.

Serve Wonder Bread to your child—because Wonder Bread gives your child 8 of the body-building elements that Nature uses to build a good health foundation.

See for yourself, at left, the 8 ways Wonder Bread helps build strong bodies.

Your child will love Wonder Bread. Because it tastes so good. So good because so fresh. Plain or toasted.

For Wonder Bread is doubly fresh. Fresh when you buy it and fresh when you eat it.

Because Wonder Bread is slo-baked—baked 13% longer than many ordinary kinds for lasting freshness.

So get nourishing doubly fresh Wonder Bread from your grocer today. And see that your child gets plenty of Wonder Bread for breakfast—and every meal!

'Life With Father' Film in 3d Week

Clarence Day's celebrated comedy, "Life With Father," which Warners have transferred to the screen in Technicolor with such outstanding success, begins its third week at the Modern and Esquire tomorrow.

Starring Irene Dunne and William Powell, the superb cast includes Elizabeth Taylor, Edmund Gwenn and Zasu Pitts in important roles. Other players include Jimmy Lydon, Emma Dunn, Moroni Olsen, and Elizabeth Risdon. The world's longest-run play on the stage, "Life With Father," currently enjoying tremendous popularity on the screen, gives every indication of setting similar popularity records as a motion picture.

New Grable Film At Met Thursday

Starring Betty Grable in the title role, "Mother Wore Tights," 20th Century-Fox's fast-stepping new Technicolor musical, will have its New England premiere on Thursday at the Metropolitan.

"Mother Wore Tights" is based on the happy, hilarious life of a pair of "hoofers," Myrtle and Frank Burt, a real-life vaudeville team whose adventures were chronicled by their daughter, Miriam Young, in a best-selling biography, "Mother Wore Tights."

The picture marks the movie debut of Hollywood's sensational new star, Dan Dailey, and includes in top supporting roles, Mona Freeman, Connie Marshall, Vanessa Brown, and William Fraley.

The companion film will be "The Tresspasser."

32 B's Set Sights On Second Place Going Into West

By HUCK FINNEGAN

Warren Spahn

BOSTON EVENING AMERICAN, TUES., SEPT. 9, 1947

CINCINNATI, Sept. 9.—Now starts the Braves' stretch drive to finish higher than any Braves' team has done since 1915. Second place is their goal, and today they were three games behind the second place world champion Cardinals with only 17 games to go. They have 13 games in the West beginning with an arduous affair against the Reds tonight. It is Bill Voiselle's turn to pitch, but Warren Spahn will work in his place. Spahn's last outing was a 2-1 victory over the Phils' Dutch Leonard last Friday.

"Spahn tonight and Clyde Shoun tomorrow," said Coach Johnny Cooney in lieu of the absent Southworth (the Braves' manager, Danny Litwhiler and Andy Karl will rejoin the club tonight after a short trip to their respective homes). "Southpaws usually do pretty well against the Reds. We'll save our right-handers for the Pirates, come back with our left-handers against Chicago and, if possible, against the Cardinals."

Winthrop Boy Hurler Makes Trip

THERE ARE DOUBLE-HEADERS scheduled in Pittsburgh Thursday and in Chicago Sunday. Two new pitchers were in the Braves' fold today but it is doubtful if they are called on to help. They are Ray Martin from Norwood, who pitched his high school team to a State championship in '43, and John Fetzner from Louisiana. Both were with the Braves' Hartford club this year. Fetzner had an 8-10 record, Martin 7-10 with a club that finished sixth. The team finished strongly however, taking 14 of its last 24 games, Martin winning three during that stretch.

Incidentally, this is the largest Braves' party Duffy Lewis ever has taken West. There is a bespectacled Winthrop lad along, cyelect Ted Carver. He's a 17-year-old, 200-pound, six-foot pitcher who graduated from Winthrop High in June. He'll leave the Braves in Chicago and start the long trek to Colby College in Waterville, Me. He plans to graduate from Colby so will do no pitching for the Braves for a while. He played summer ball with old Ben Hauser in Winthrop, Me, and there he met a group of Colby boys who induced him to attend their favorite institution on Waterville's Strawberry Hill.

Also along are Charlie Chronopolous, Frank McNulty and Tommy Ferguson who are bat and clubhouse boys with the Braves and are taking a joy ride before returning to school. It is their first Western trip, and Duffy Lewis is seeing that they enjoy it.

Alvin Dark to Join Club in West

IN ADDITION the post's Howell Stevens is chaperoning Dick Carmichael and Clarke Wotowicz, two young ball players who shone in a recent all-star game at Braves Field.

There are 46 in the party and if Milwaukee is knocked out of the playoffs, Alvin Dark, Tommy Neil, Danny Murtaugh and Glenn Elliott will join the Braves in the West, kiting the roster to the half-hundred mark. This would be an all-time record for a Lewis-directed squad during the championship season.

So there are plenty along to cheer the Braves as they aim to finish higher than third for the first time since 1916. It'll be a rough fight because the Braves' record proves they play better at home than on the road. Their road record is 29-35, but mayhap the thought of that second place World Series money will drive them home ahead of the Cards. At any rate they'll give it the old college try.

Fetzer Recommended by Dark

SPAHN WILL BE seeking his 18th win tonight, and Sain will be looking for his 20th, Thursday. It is exactly 10 years since the Braves had two 20-game winners (Fette and Turner), and nobody can recall when they had a 20-game southpaw winner... Martin is a 6-3, 200-pounder, who has a nice fast ball. "Nice to ride on a train again," he smiled. He and Fetzer have been riding the buses all year long for Hartford. They finished the season in Scranton, drove to Springfield where they joined the Braves... Fetzer was recommended to the Braves by Alvin Dark. Both are from Louisiana State University. Fetzer is a stocky youngster whose main fault at this stage of the game is lack of control.

Tea Bishop Opens Defense Of National Amateur Title

PEBBLE BEACH, Cal., Sept. 9 (AP)—The U. S. National Amateur golf championship swung into the second round today with all of the solid contenders for the crown still in the running and old man par for the Pebble Beach course virtually unscathed from yesterday's play.

Leading the contestants into action was defending champion Ted Bishop of Dedham, Mass., who enjoyed a bye in the first round and spent the day at the neighboring Cypress Point course belting out a practice round of 66, six strokes under par.

Bishop was paired with Henry G. Kershaw of Phoenix, Ariz., who also had an idle day yesterday, and, barring an upset, the 1946 champion should proceed through the round, and the next one or two, without too much difficulty.

The other challengers of yesterday's play offered proof that Bishop will wade into deeper water as the tournament progresses in match play, however.

Two old-time champions who were warriors of the crown when some of the present crop of players were in knee pants or less dropped by the wayside in the first round, and still another bearing one of the most famous names in golf lost out to opponents and Pebble Beach's rough par 36-36-72 course.

The first two were Charles Evans, Jr., who added this crown to many others on two distant years, and was finalist on three occasions, and Harrison R. Johnston of Minneapolis, the 1929 champion, which was the year Bob Jones bowed out in the first round in an upset to an upstart named Johnny Goodman.

Evans lost to George Rowbotham of Manoa, Pa., 5 and 4, and Johnston lost to Eugene S. Andrews of San Diego, 2 and 1.

The other casualty, which he took with all the amusing spirit of his famous father, was Walter J. Jager, Jr., of Richmond, Va., who was beaten by L. D. Ribner of White Plains, N. Y., 3 and 2.

Stranahan, in routing Douglas Bajus of Vancouver, B. C., 7 and 6, shot the best golf of the day. He was even with par except on two holes, which he birdied, and rounded the first nine two under par. He was paired with Ribner today.

Almost as good was the performance of Bud Ward, who smashed W. A. Schneider of Honolulu, 9 and 7.

Chapman met James A. McAlvin of Chicago in the second round, while Billows was paired with Thomas Leonard of Nashua, N. H. Dawson, faced Ernest Gerardi of Wetherfield, Ct.

Ernie Doherty of Woburn, Mass., turned in a two up win over R. E. Talley of Greensburg, Pa., while Joe Monahan, Jr., of Winchester, ousted Bill Ebey of Oklahoma City, 6-5. Johnny Levinson of Kennebunk, Me., was another N. E. winner.

L. A. Dons Get Dobbs; Bertelli Goes to Chi

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 9 (AP)—With the acquisition of Glenn Dobbs by the Los Angeles Dons, this city today held a powerful hand in its bid to become the aerial hub of major league football.

The pair of aces—tough to trump anywhere—are Dobbs, the All-America Conference's defending pass champion, and Bob Waterfield of the Los Angeles Rams, the National League's top passer of 1946.

The Dons came up with Dobbs yesterday in a three-play trade that sent Angelo Bertelli from the Dons to the Chicago Rockets, and Bob (Hunchy) Hoernschemeyer from Chicago to Brooklyn, whence came Dobbs. There was no cash involved in the deal, all officials concerned said.

The Dons, of course, were jubilant over getting the big ex-Tulsa All-American, even though they'll have to take over a five-year contract which doesn't call for chicken-feed figures.

In Dobbs, we feel we will have an attraction equal to "Waterfield," said Coach Dud De Groot, making no bones about the licking the Dons took at the box office from the Rams last season.

De Groot said Dobbs, expected to arrive in time to practice today, will be used at his customary left half or tailback spot against the Yankees. The Dons use the "T" and De Groot doubts whether the 6-foot 4-inch Tulsan can handle the quarterback assignment, which will fall to Charley O'Rourke.

Dobbs has been almost exclusively a single wing operative, but it's a clinch De Groot will find something for him to do at Friday's "T" session besides carry a tray.

After all, Dobbs was selected virtually unanimously for the All-America's "most valuable" honor after topping the loop in both passing and punting with the Dodgers last fall. He completed 135 of 269 passes for 1886 yards and 13 touchdowns.

For comparative purposes, Waterfield's 1946 record was 127 completions in 251 tosses for 1747 yards and 18 touchdowns.

The Dons' joy over the trade apparently was shared in Brooklyn and Chicago.

Dodger Coach Cliff Battles, admitting he was giving up a kicking edge, declared: "Hoernschemeyer will give us a superior field general. Dobbs made several strategic mistakes this fall."

And the Rockets' Jimmy Crowley apparently got what he wanted, too.

"Hunchy was a good passer, but he worked best from a single wing, while Bertelli will fit in better with our T-formation passing attack," said Crowley.

Bertelli, the former Notre Dame ace, is expected to be a crowd lure in the Windy City. Hoernschemeyer has the advantage of youth. He's 21, Dobbs and Bertelli are 26.

Williams Improves A. L. Lead

Harry Walker appears a cinch to win the National League batting crown, while Ted Williams has improved his chances of coping the American League title, according to the Associated Press.

Walker, the fleet-footed outfielder of the Philadelphia Phillies, added two points to his total in the past seven days to increase his top mark to .356, leading second place Phil Cavett of Chicago by .36 points. Frank McCormick of Boston is hitting .352, only four points behind Walker, but it is questionable if he will be at bat enough times to receive official recognition from National Ford Frick of the National League.

Williams, the Red Sox slugger, slipped three percentage points, but his .337 gave him 10 points on the field on the basis of averages, including Sunday's games. Williams actually gained a point as runner-up Dale Mitchell of Cleveland dropped four points to .327. Ted collected nine hits in 30 times at bat while Mitchell banged 11 in 38 appearance.

Joe Cronin's staggering Sox must defeat Steve O'Neill's Tigers to hang on to second place which they have set their sights on since they couldn't make any hay while the leading Yankees were stumbling through the west and getting off to a bad start at home yesterday when they fell before Cleveland, 4-3. The Sox margin on the Tigers before game time was a half game.

The Sox will have to struggle through the rest of the season without Tex Hughson, who will definitely undergo an operation on his ailing arm in the immediate future.

Hughson was advised by doctors here last week that the elbow should be operated on, but delayed any action until he consulted with manager Joe Cronin and other Fenway officials upon the Red Sox retreat from Philadelphia. At the conference yesterday, which included doctors,

It was decided that the operation was necessary and that Hughson would not be able to pitch any more this year. No date has been set for the operation.

Hughson's arm has been ailing for sometime. He reported trouble earlier in the season and was examined by Dr. Hayland while in St. Louis and reports were circulated at that time that he had to undergo an operation. However, this story was denied at that time and Hughson went on to pitch some fine games.

It was during the last series with the Yankees in Boston that the elbow misery finally caught up with him.

Despite the loss of Hughson and the delay of Dave "Boo" Ferriss to respond to treatment, the pitching staff has been bolstered by the recall of Tommy Fine and the addition of Ellis Deal of Montreal, who was obtained along with catcher Matt Batts from Montreal when the Red Sox severed relations with the International League club recently.

Joe Dobson (15-7), Sox' winningest pitcher, was Cronin's selection to oppose Virgil "Fire" Trucks in the series opener.

Bruins Open Season at Home, Oct. 19

The National Hockey League's 1947-48 season will open on Oct. 15 at Detroit with Chicago playing the Red Wings, and will continue through 180 games until Sunday, March 21. The Boston Bruins will play 30 games at home at Boston Garden, the opening game being scheduled Sunday, Oct. 19 against the New York Rangers.

The Bruins also will play home games on Oct. 22 against Les Canadiens and Oct. 26 against Chicago, and then will not play again in Boston until Nov. 16. Seven of their first ten games will be on the road.

The Bruins will play 14 Sunday night games in Boston. There will be 11 Wednesday games, and three Saturday games. The Bruins will play two Thursday night games on Christmas night and New Year's night. Their away schedule calls for games on 11 Saturdays, nine Wednesdays, seven Sundays, two Thursdays and one Tuesday.

Manager Art Ross and Coach Dit Clappes are now at St. Catharines, Ontario where 40 amateur players, mostly Canadian lads, are attending a two-weeks hockey school. These youngsters have for the most part never previously been seen by Ross or Clappes but have been recommended by the Bruins scouts, headed by Harold Cotton of Toronto. Art Jackson, former Bruins player and now coach of the St. Catharines Junior A team, is also coaching at the Bruins' school.

The main Bruins squad of some 30 players will report to Ross at Hershey, Monday, Sept. 29. The Bruins, as in the past, will play a series of exhibition games with the Hershey Bears of the American League as part of their pre-season training.

Arlington High Faces Tough Opener

By MIKE GILLOOLY

You can bet your last silver dollar that Coach Henry Toczykowski had little—if anything—to do with the arrangement of his Arlington High School football schedule, for if he did, he certainly would have avoided an opening game so early (Saturday afternoon, 2:30) against such a major opponent (Medford) with the dim prospects this season. Arlington has lost nine of its starters from last fall so that Coach Toczykowski's chances for success will fall almost entirely on players from last year's reserve group.

Rook Named N. U. Frosh Grid Aide

Gus Rook, who helped Northeastern pioneer in football back in the days of Al McCoy, this morning was named assistant coach of the freshman football squad at Northeastern. He will aid Herb Gallagher, varsity hockey and baseball coach who is top man for the first-year footballers.

Rook, who was a baseball and football mainstay for Dutch Holland at Mechanic Arts High, played on McCoy's undefeated freshman team in 1933, the year in which football was started at Northeastern. Two years later he starred on the only undefeated varsity team in Husky history.

He also was a standout in baseball, alternating between the mound and the outfield. Since his graduation, he has helped with the Northeastern scouting to supplement his regular duties as assistant professor of drawing, which includes work in engineering drawing and graphical presentation.

Gallagher and Rook will call out their first-year men tomorrow.

TRAINER MAKES IT TOUGH FOR CRIMSON ELEVEN

One of the big guns behind the Crimson football scene is the work of head trainer Jimmy Cox. Jimmy is the fellow the boys try to duck, for at every practice session Professor Cox conducts his class in the art of loosening up.

The other day a young fellow showed up who put the Professor right back in his own class and made the rugged footballers wince with pain at the contortions and corkscrew maneuvers he demonstrates.

The young fellow was Kenny Cox, from Lexington High, and the younger Cox has been well

Fans will be concentrating on the highly-louted Somerville High eleven in the jamboree at Russell Field, Cambridge, Saturday afternoon. . . Coach Tom Lynch's club will be meeting Watertown in the second of the four games. . . Other pairings find Cambridge Latin vs. Brookline, the Class B defending titlist, Waltham vs. Malden Catholic and Norwood vs. Rindge Tech. Coach Bernie Meggin will certainly have his new—and green—Concord High eleven accustomed to competition before they move into their schedule. . . the Class D titlist of last fall will take its place in its second jamboree Friday night at Hudson. . . Joe Callahan's shift from center to end should help the line considerably.

Tappet to Drive In Medford Races

Forced out of last Wednesday's midget auto racing competition at the Medford Bowl because of an accident at a New York track, Ted Tappet, Manhasset, L. I., returns there tonight where he will be looking for the honors in the featured sixth race.

Heading the local riders on the card is "Wild Man" George Lewis, Newton, who stars strong, the leading high in the point winners of the season.

Eagles Need Hard Work To Mold 'Team' Eleven

By LEO MONAHAN

"We've got a lot of work to do," said Denny Myers, Boston College grid coach, after he watched his charges go through a rough and tumble scrimmage, the Eagles' first of the season which lasted 45 minutes. "The boys showed a lot of spirit but weren't working together as a team," concluded the affable Iowan.

Myers assigned the B. C. candidates to study their book of plays for an hour in an effort to make them work together better as a unit.

All was not gloom at the Heights, however, since several Eagles were particularly impressive. Joe Diminich, diminutive speedster from Culmport, Pa., rewarded Myers' confidence in placing him with the first string backfield with Ed Clasy, Ed "Butch" Songin and Bob Palladino by tearing off several long broken-field runs.

Diminich saw little action last season but has been outstanding in spring drills and in practice. He's the smallest man on the squad (5-8, 155 pounds). Extremely fast and agile, he has the speed to outrun the secondary once he breaks through. He should see a lot of action this fall.

At Cannava, shifty Medford speedster, also was a considerable yardage. Probably the best broken field runner at the Heights, Cannava fails to make use of his blockers and has a bad habit of running towards his own goal line when trapped. If Myers can correct these failings, Cannava should run up a good deal of yardage this year.

Myers has yet to unearth a capable place-kicking specialist. He plans to devote some time every day to kicking off and kicking from placement and should realize this with a prospect in the near future.

The line of play of Roy Norden, Bob Chouinard and Al Murray was impressive. . . Myers plans to hold secret practice starting today. . . He has about a dozen crick plays he wants to drill with his squad in private. Mario Giamelli joined the injured ranks when he lost a tooth and required several stitches to close a cut lip. . . Others on the shelf are Vic Palladino (wrenched knee), Bernard Lanoue (pulled leg muscle) and Chet Lipka (strained side).

Reggie Brown, former coach at Harvard, West Point and Brown, is present at every drill. . . He pointed out that the chief requirement for a good football player is to keep his legs in condition. . . "Size doesn't mean much," Brown, who played fullback when he weighed 158 pounds. . . "If a player has good legs he'll get by all right." . . One of Myers' main objectives is to correct faults in crick plays which were acquired in high school. . . Many of the candidates have habits which will prove costly in college play.

Williams Plays Practice Game With U. of Mass.

WILLIAMSTOWN, Sept. 9 (INS)—Williams and the University of Massachusetts plan a practice football game Sept. 20, two weeks before the opening of the regular season.

TRAINER MAKES IT TOUGH FOR CRIMSON ELEVEN

son, was something no one interested in the Harvard cause cared to discuss.

Emil Dravatz, who was the expert place kicker last year, has been shifted to end and the hefty Nick Rodis moved one step over to guard. Chuck Glynn and Bill Hickey are battling it out for the pivot job while the tackle slots are still a wide open affair.

Harvard has no soft touch in its opener with Western Maryland and it is all too evident when you get a look at the Soldiers Field drills that Messrs. Harlow and staff fully realize it.

Donelli, B. U. Coach, Follows Usual Pattern

A head football coach must perennially complain about his fall prospects and Buff Donelli of BU is no exception.

During the past few weeks, he has groaned over how quickly his players were tiring, the lack of heavy linemen and their replacements, and his latest is trouble with the backfield with the accent on worries at quarterback.

Buff moaned at practice that 195-pound Johnny Toner of Nantucket was the only first-rate experienced quarterback on the team.

"I have lost Hugh MacIsaac, last season's third string signal caller, with a dislocated shoulder and he will be out at least four weeks. Now I'm grooming Ed Dobiack of Springfield and Jimmy Wheeler of Weymouth, a punter, for the slot in my winged T formation."

He went on to say that the boys have been rushed into the backfield and were quick to learn. One failing, according to Donelli, is that neither of the boys have the weight to take the punishment a signal caller must absorb. Dobiack is 175 and Wheeler goes at 180.

As yet Donelli has had no complaints about his halfbacks, Bob Hatch of Melrose and Don Giles of Milton. Both have shown terrific speed and reception while running in scrimmages. Hatch pulled a muscle in his right shoulder a week ago but he reports himself in fine shape now.

Irish Footballers Pause in Boston En Route to N. Y.

Wearied from the long flight via the Azores, members of the Cavan and Kerry football teams paused briefly in Boston today before continuing on to New York where on Sunday they will meet for the All-Ireland championship while an estimated 50,000 people at the Polo Grounds.

Cavan's 15-man team will be led by John O'Reilly, an Irish Army officer, and center half-back. The men from the Kingdom of Kerry, 16 times holders of the championship, will be captained by Dan O'Keefe, considered one of the best goalies in the game and a player on seven championship teams.

Tomorrow both teams will be officially welcomed to the city by a luncheon tendered by Mayor William O'Dwyer.

Already 600 enthusiastic fans from Eire have arrived by plane and ship and other thousands of Irishmen from Philadelphia and Chicago are expected to be here for the game. Boston fans have chartered a special train which will bring several hundred from the Hub the day of the game.

Ailing Refugees

Jewish refugees who became ill while being transported from the Mediterranean to Germany by British are loaded into ambulance at Kuechnitz, Germany, before starting on last lap of journey to Poppendorf detention camp. They had attempted to run British blockade into the Holy Land. Some resistance was put up by scores of the 1406 Jewish refugees before they debarked from the SS Ocean Vigour.
